here will be a thoroughly successful one.

Sometime store a critical of form; white walking on a railroad track, was run over and killed by a passing train, and his widow brought suit against the road to recover damages to the amount of fitten thousand dollars—the average value, we presume, of the common run of husbands. In his charge to the jury the judge who tried the case said: "No man has a right to go upon a railroad track in such a place, and go along in a state of abstraction, careless of what might happen to him, and then turn around and say to the railroad company, however say to the railroad company, however negligent they may have been, you are responsible for my safety. If he is care-less himself, it can't be expected that the railroads can be made to take our railroads can be made to take care of him and pay for him it he is killed. Being on the track and walking in a direction where a railroad train might overtake him, reasonable care required of him that he should be vigilant and watchtul to dis. cover the approach of any train, and es pecially from behind." To say that judge's head is level would be to employ a vulgar expression—a thing we never do; but he head is level, nevertheless. The jury gave a verdict for the detendant.

We want to offer "a pipeful of Kentucky tobacco" to JOHN FORSYTH as a caltucky tobacco" to John Forsyth as a cal-umet of peace. He has at last come round all right, and we call attention to the fact not in the way of a taunt, but for the sake of congratulation and conciliation. If we have ever said any thing to wound his feel-ings personally, we take back every word of it. Certain it is, we never entertained any personal ill-will. A more according any personal ill-will. A more accom-plished, a more sincere, and, at times, a more obstinate, man does not live. Had he occupied our chair, however (a chair we feel sure he would fill much more gracefully and abler than we do), instead of the seat of thorns which Radicalism has provided for every public man in Alahas provided for every public man in Alabama, his sagacity and enlightenment must have led him to see things as we have seen them. But no matter. He sees them now even through the glooms and mists of the misgovernment to which he and his people have been consigned, and from which they are but just emerging. As events proceed he and they will see them still more clearly. So a truce to the wars of the roses. The Krystone Democracy have led off finely as a minority.

Shall we learn nothing from the least Shall we learn nothing from the leason?
Our situation at this moment is more perilous and desperate than it was thus time preceding the New York convention to 1868, and we cannot surely afford to make any more mistakes. But we are in a tur way to be involved in a first-class. mistake. A new convert, like CAMPREL ecalous newspapers, is capable of doing fatal injury to all our interests.

The other day the Savannah Republican complained that the Northern Democrats lack backbone, and gave us a very heroic heard year place. In what do the Korthern Democrats lack backbone? Did they lack it in 1868, when they allowed us to make a platform for them and fought it out against crushing majorities with back-bones of cast-troit? Have they lacked believe during ten ways of personation.

bones of cast-iron? Have they lacked backbone during ten years of persecution, disaster and gloom? But the Columbus (Ga.) Sun, catching up the assertion of the Republican, goes further and says. If we wish to be free we mast not less on others, but surfix the first blow. God will sain those who help themselves. If we of the South are citiess of the Government our voice should be also of the god of the Government our voice should be also of the god of the Government our voice should be also of the Government our voice should be also of the Government our voice of the first blow? Its language is meaning-lies, or clae it is revolutionary. We know that it is more heedless, hishuth, hall writing that means nothing at all. But, as quoted by the Radicals in the North and coming from the South, it is made to mean the worst that its exaggerated tone implies.

poses, and just such perminitionary our prove them. Of course "Goo helps those who help themselves." But how shall we help ourselves? Is it helping ourselves to talk vaguely about "striking the first blow?" Is it helping ourselves to make sectious war on the only friends we have at the North? The Sun speaks of our rights "under the Constitution." But the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Flitteenth amendments are parts of that Constitution. Does the Sun appeal to them? Does it accept them at all? It it does why leave the inference that it does not? It it does not how is it going to get rid of them. not how is it going to get rid of them, and what force is there in an appeal to the Constitution with an open reservation against three of its articles? This method on helping ourselves seems to us a sure way to destroying the last hope we have of restoring free and constitutional gov-ernment administered in a just, peaceful nd national spirit.

The fight is to be fought in the North. It we cannot carry Pennsylvania and Indiana we are defeated. Now, who should judge as to the issues to be made, the editor of the Savannah Republican and the editor of the Columbus Sun or the Democratic leaders and journals of the Northeand Northwest?

The first be made by direct lending of capital than question that arises is the financial one. Will she be able to obtain the huge sums necessary for these purposes? It seems rather doubtful, in the present state of affairs, particularly if we consider that her debt is even at present already an enormous one. This will become evident mainly heaped upon France by the exuravagent and senseless administrations of Louis XIV. and Louis XV., the wars of swell it, but the economical administration ot LOUIS PHILIPPE kept it within reasonable bounds. Nevertheless, it was, with the exception of the English national debt, larger than that of any other government in the world. The debt which had for some time remained almost statu quo suddenly began to increase under the Second Empire. On ascending the throne, LOUIS NAPOLEON had promised the na-tion that the empire meant peace. Neverand robbed of a large amount of meaning that and what is really not half entered by a window in the rear of the balleding, we also having taken the west departure," but what is really nothing as also having taken the key of the safe out of his pacts nocket, opening but an expression of sound sense, is a fixed fact. We now begin to see light and Missussippi Steamship Line will have pool and Missussippi Steamship Line will have proposed and Missussippi Steamship Line will have proposed to the Presidential year.

The New Orleans Picsupes says the Liverpool and Missussippi Steamship Line will have proposed to the Presidential year.

The Democratic campaign of 1868 was fought out upon an advanced line of an advanced line theless, but a lew years elapsed before the the Imperial Court and the expense of the Italian campaign of 1859, had increased the debt of France in the next five years, at 1862, 12,080,825,183 francs, or twentyfour hundred millions of dollars. This wa an increase of more than six thousand five hundred millions of francs during the first ten years of Louis Napoleon's Imperial administration, during which the national debt of France was more than doubled. The increase during the next five years was not so great as during those that pre-ceded it. In 1869 the debt figured up 14,263,479,355 francs, or about twenty-eight hundred and fifty millions of dollars. To this was added in July, 1870, a war loan of one hundred and fitty millions of dollars, and the Committee of National Defense decreed in the October following a loan of further fitty millions of dollars. On the 85th of October, 1870, the national debt of France amounted to 15,263,479,255 france We think that we make a very moderate estimate if we figure the amount borrowed by the French government since then, and which was made necessary by the total want of arms and military stores, at about five hundred millions of dollars, which would give a total debt of thirty-five hundred and fifty millions of dollars at rity is no man at all.

The interest on this debt will, indeed not be proportionally as high as that which the bondholders of the United States take in, for the greater part of the French debt consists of three per cents. but as the interest she had to pay in 1869 on fourteen thousand millions of dollars on fourteen thousand millions of dollars amounted to one hundred and twenty-cight millions, we may calculate it in future at two hundred and sixty millions of dollars annually.

It is really almost incomprehensible how France will be able to bear such a burder France will be able to bear such a burden, particularly as she has also lost two of her richest provmees. We cannot see how ahe can escape bankruptcy, for beside this terrible additional interest on her new debt, she will also be obliged to support for some years a large German army of occupation. As her Financial Budget showed a she must pay these immease additional expenses, at a time when the war has im-poverished the country and reduced its revenues almost to a third of what they formerly were.

The National Banks.

In view of the fact that only $16,000,000 of the $54,000,000 of national bank circulation authorized under the law of July 14, 1870, had been saked for up to the latest advices from the Comptroller of the Currency, and of the further facts that a poetion of the sum, has been given to that the sum, has been given to that the sum, and will 1900 to be Kenneky controllation, and will 1900 to be Kenneky controllation, and will 1900 to be successful. for by Kentucky capitalists, an article on this very subject, from the Chacago Tribuce, which we print in another place, with be found to possess a deep local interest. It is the object of the Tribune's article to show that the slowness with which the South and West have applied for the of-teredradditional circulation as not entirely due to lack of capital in those sections, but rather to the fact that "bankers have not been able to figure out any con-tions, but rather to the fact that "bankers have not been able to figure out any considerable profit in taking this extra currency on the terms prescribed by law." The writer in the Tribune shows very clearly that the advantages of the national banking system are by no meuns as great as they were in the days when government securities were much lower than they now are, and when the existence of seven-thirties and compound-interest notes and three per cent. curificates enabled the banks to semploy as a reserve some forth per cent. certineates enabled the banks to semploy as a reserve some forth of interest-bearing security, instead of being required, as now, to set aside for this purpose twenty-five per cent. of their working capital in the shape of greenbacks or gold. But in those days the national banks made inordunate profits, and none except the harmfoliairs will reserve that except the beneficiaries will regret that thing to know that the advantages of the banking business are no longer monopo-lized by a particular system. At present it is probably quite true, as the Tribune

. But there are a few facts favoring the national system which we taink the Tri-bune has overlooked. It omits to state that at present, at least, a considerable amount of three-per cent, certificates are still available for the purpose of a reserve, debt is even at present amount of three-present amount the bands of city banks. Upon this fund system this particular custom should be

Besides, the national banking law as it now stands is by no means a finality. It is quite conceivable that in the progress of time the system may be subjected to a lighter burden of taxation. This will cer tainly be done if it is found that it compels them to carry on their business at a disad-vantage. A combination so rich and pow-erful as the national banks will be pretty apt to obtain any special legislation which they may seriously demand. Though the Tribune has figured out that as matters now stand the national is very little more profitable than the State or private they cap.

For our part, we can see no sufficient reason why Kentucky capital should hesi-tate to invest itself under the national banking law. We should rather think it will be acting wisely to seize the presen opportunity to possess itself of the larges ssible share of the privileges which the ystem affords. Much has been lost to this State by our past caution and delay. Unless we enter now, whilst we can, the doo Courier-Journal.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 1, 1971.

In a volume of some three hundred pages, published by D. Appleton. & Co., the Rev. Oliver S. Munsell, D. De, President of the Illinois Wesleyan University, has presented his views upon the subject of Psychology. In his preface, the author says that every teacher has long felt the lack of a good text-book for the use of his classes in this department of education; and, while he modestly disclaims the idea that he has perfectly met that want, his stateen years' experience in teaching have embiled him, he thinks, to present the subject in a manner that other practical teachers will appreciate. We would earnestly recommend all such to earefully examine this new text-book upon this much-neglected science, confident that they will find in it much to approve. It strikes us that the liberal use of larger type in calling attention to the subjects of the various paragraphs is an excellent feature. The book can be procured at John P. Morion & Co.'s.

SMALL TALK.

CHILDS play-Publishing the leading Phila-

TME desth of J. R. Osgeod, Sunday-school Superintendent at Indianapolis, has brought out a number of newspaper oblimates of James R. Osgeod, the publisher.

Saw Francisco has a supreme contempt for the $5,000 of nickels recently sent there. They are used by Friscans for petty gambling, and have created quite a revival in penny-pitching.

A consuperonder propounds to a Washington paper this conundrum: "Judged by the standard of the Young Men's Christian Association, if Jesus were now on earth could be be admitted to membership in that association?" The Washington paper ignomisiously

I among others urged them to take advan-tage of it. If instead of nominating our fine old friend Seymour—with his draft-riot repa-tation and the absurd platform they give him to stand on—they had put up Chase the sour try would have been carried for peace and Democracy. I voted for Seymour and Biar mysieff, very unwillingly, i confess, especially for Blair—I went with the crowd. The true pelley for the Democracy is to nominate for Biart—I went with the crowd. The true pelley for the Democracy is to nominate for the Presidency some good and tried Demo-crat with a sound war record, not necessa-rily a soldier, if the Republicans put up a civilian, but a prominent general in case Grant is in the field. Parhaps it would be better in any case to nominate a civilian."
